A Cullercoats Childhood by

Elaine Whitesides

MUSIC: The Keelers

Elaine Whitesides is a Cullercoats born author now living in Nottingham. This vividly written account of growing up in Cullercoats, published by IRON Press, is both a description of a unique community and a microcosm of postwar 1950s Britain, an era within many people's memories, but also seeming strangely distant. The book has been reprinted specially for the festival. Elaine will also run a workshop on memoir writing (see Sunday evening).

MUSIC; We are delighted to welcome back our very own sea shanty quartet, The Keelers, locally based but with an international reputation for fantastic harmonies.
